Burial Grounds in Fayetteville

There are about 125 public and family burial grounds in Washington County. The lists of burials in most of these cemeteries have been published in the Washington County Historical Society's publication FLASHBACK during the past five years.

The present booklet contains the lists for three burial grounds that are located within the city limits of Fayetteville, the county seat. It does not contain the names of the soldier dead who are buried in the National and Confederate cemeteries, both of which are also within the Fayetteville city limits. Nor does it contain the names from family burial grounds within the city or on its outskirts. These have been published previously.

The earliest deaths in Washington County occurred in the southwestern part of the county, so the earliest burial dates are found in the old cemeteries near Evansville (Academy and Lewis), near Morrow (Bethlehem and Bethesda), and at Cane Hill (Bean).

Fayetteville's first burial ground was probably the Walker family cemetery on East Mountain, where the earliest death date is that of Jacob Wythe Walker -- 1838. The first burials in what is now Fayetteville's largest cemetery, Evergreen, were made in the early 1840's when this was the Thomas family's private burial ground. It was not acquired by the city until a quarter century later.

Evergreen Cemetery is important historically because it is the last resting place of many pioneers and others who helped shape the county's history -- soldiers, doctors, jurists, bankers, and educators. Among the soldiers buried here are Archibald Yell, Mexican War hero; A. S. Vandeventer of Confederate fame; and Elias Chandler, Colonel of the First Arkansas Regiment in the War with Spain. Here also are the Tidball brothers, Charles and Jack, who gave their lives in France in the last month of World War I.

Among the pioneer doctors who sleep in Evergreen are W.B. Welch, T.J. Pollard, H.D. Wood and W.N. Yates. Among the noted jurists are Lafayette Gregg and T.H. Humphreys. The bankers who helped build Fayetteville and who now rest in Evergreen include William McIlroy and Stephen K. Stone. Other builders are W. Zera Mayes, Peter VanWinkle and Albert M. Byrnes. Among the public officials in Evergreen are Congressmen T.M. Gunter and John N. Tillman and many county judges and mayors of Fayetteville. Educators whose services contributed much to the building of Fayetteville and Arkansas include Sophia Sawyer, Noah P. Gates, John L. Buchanan and John C. Futrall.

The Walker cemetery is important historically because it contains such pioneer names as Sutton, Wilson, Jernigan, Quarles, Watson, as well as such illustrious Walkers as Judge David Walker, Chief Justice of the Arkansas Supreme Court; J. D. Walker, U.S. Senator; four Confederate officers; and members of the Washington family.

The oldest dated burials in Evergreen Cemetery are those of two children -- George Thomas Stirman (1842-1847) and Mary Stirman Pollard (1844-1848) -- and of Melissa Pulliam, "consort of R.P. Pulliam, who departed this life April 11, 1849, aged 28 yr's, 4 mo's, 30 d's." Mrs. Pulliam was Melissa Thomas, whose parents owned the farm on which the cemetery was located. These three graves (Mrs. Pulliam and the Stirman and Pollard children) are covered with sandstone slabs, deeply engraved and laid flush on the ground.

Two monuments in Evergreen Cemetery that deserve special mention are those of Talliaferro Bostick and S.C. Finley. Talliaferro Bostick was a student in old Arkansas College. The square pillar that marks his grave bears this Latin inscription:

Talliaferro Bostick, Discipulus
Ingentio ae Labore insignis
Obit IX Kal. Nov. A.D. MDCCCLVI (1856)
Annos Natus XX

S. C. Finley died 1878, aged 18. The marker on his grave says: "In token of their appreciation of his noble character and bearing, his classmates of the Sub-Freshman class of the A.I.U. have erected this monument."

The Walker Cemetery

The Walker cemetery is located on East Mountain in Fayetteville, across the road from the Confederate cemetery. An ornamental fence encloses the large plot where sleep the pioneer Walkers. Other families are scattered over the hillside. Most of the lots are fenced in the style of the 1880's.

The oldest burial date is on the brick tomb that houses the dust of Jacob Wythe Walker (1778-1838). Beside him, in a similar tomb, is his wife Ann (1782-1851).

Two small brick vaults of a century ago house the children of Erastus E. and Courtnay N. Duncan -- an infant who died in 1844, and Thomas Wythe Duncan who died in 1850.

Members of the Walker family buried here are:

David Walker (1806-1879) and wife Jane L. (1813-1847)
Capt. John J. Walker (1817-1886)
James David Walker (1830-1906) and wife Mary (1837-1910), also their son George (died 1883) and daughter (died 1892)
Charles Whiting Walker (1834-1924) and wife Serena (1843-1932)
Capt. Jacob Wythe Walker (1833-1864) of Co.A, 2nd Arkansas Regt. CSA, who was killed in the battle of Jenkins Ferry, Ark., May 21, 1864.
Jacob Wythe Walker (1866-1928)
Susan H. Walker (1857-1939)
Jack Walker (1869-1923)
David Walker (1872-1935)

Also in the Walker family lot are:

Rebecca Washington (1786-1861) and her sister, Lucy Smith (1796-1861)
Whiting Washington (1824-1896)
John James Pope (died 1861). Gravestone inscription: "Jamie, the only son of his mother and she was a widow."
Lucy, whose attractive old gravestone bears this verse:
 "She lived unknown and few could know
 When Lucy ceased to be;
 But she is in her grave and O!
 The difference is to me."
Charles R. Buckner (1842-1910) and wife, Nannie Walker Buckner (1842-1910)
Jacob Carman Purdy (1834-1916) and wife, Annie Newman Purdy (1845-1912)

Adjoining the Walker lot is the Wilson lot, also enclosed by an iron fence. Here is a tall marble shaft, inscribed on one side "Family monument of W. L. and Kate Wilson." W.L. was Washington L. Wilson, one of Fayetteville's very first merchants and charter member of Washington Lodge No.1, F & A M. On the other three sides of the monument are the names of Wilson children: Alfred Drysdale, Kate Stirman, and Clara Electa.

In the Sutton family lot are the graves of:

Seneca Sutton (1802-1852)
George Sutton (1848-1907) and wife Margaret (1855-1925)
Mary Sutton (1846-1916)
Isabella Sutton (1853-1922)

Other pioneers buried in this old graveyard on East Mountain are:

Benjamin M. Pegram (1818-1909) and wife Mary B. (1822-1886)
Louisa Jernigan (1817-1888)
Mary M., wife of Josiah Price (1803-1887)
William A. Quarles (1825-1860)
George F. L. Rudolph (1825-1916) and Francis M. Rudolph (1838-1900), and Virginia Rudolph (died 1864) and Fred (died 1872)
Martha A., wife of W. S. Henry (1825-1869)
William A. Watson (1830-1900) and wife Sarah A. (1834-1902)
Dr. Sidney B. Jernigan (1848-1885)
Sallie Pegram (1855-1877)
Bettie V., daughter of E. E. and M. A. Harris (1855-1869)
Two children of E. H. and Susan B. Walker -- Jacob Wythe (1876-1884) and Bennie (1873-1891)
